Windsor-Essex Commits To Local Share Of New Hospital System

It has been a momentous couple of weeks for the new Windsor-Essex Hospitals Systems project. On April 20 Essex County Council voted to a levy to cover it's portion of the local share and on April 26 the city followed suit. This represents a $200 million combined commitment from the city and the county. It is a very generous contribution from residents in the region and we look forward to turning this shared vision into a reality and offering modern, accessible, efficient and patient-centred healthcare, for generations to come.

In order to move to the next stage in planning for the project, approval from the provincial government is required. By committing to the local share, we are sending a message that the community is firmly united behind the proposal and we are ready to move forward. To make sure that message is heard, Mayor Drew Dilkens and Warden Tom Bain sent a letter to Ontario's Minister of Health and Long-Term Care. The letter outlines their commitment to a cost-sharing plan for the local share of the proposed Windsor-Essex Hospitals System and very clearly states #WEareready to move to the next stage of planning.

National Day Of Mourning Ceremony Recognized

A ceremony honouring Canada's National Day of Mourning took place in Windsor on April 28th raising awareness for individuals who have been injured or lost their lives in the workplace. The theme for 2016's Day of Mourning was the adverse health effects caused by asbestos. Ceremony host Tracie Palmer shared the fact that 145,000 workers in Canada are exposed to asbestos each year, often times leading to fatal diseases.

Families of deceased workers shared their stories with the audience at St. Augustine Church in the hopes of preventing future incidents through proper education, inside and outside the workplace.

Ontario Nurses Association's Barb St. Pierre stated that the National Day of Mourning is "exactly what it says! It's fighting for the living and mourns for the dead." This sentiment was shared when the group marched to the Injured Workers' Monument in Coventry Gardens. The day is especially resonant with St. Pierre and Karen Bertram as it marked ten years since the memorial held for nurse Lori Dupont.

NDP leaders attended, speaking of their commitment to help workers and create a safer work environment. They stood in solidarity at the end of the ceremony, letting the group know they are bringing their concerns up in their respective government levels.

KiliKlimb Screening A Success For Organ Donor Awareness Month

Approximately 15 people attended a screening of the KiliKlimb 2015 movie at Lakeshore Cinemas on Wednesday April 27th, in support of the Trillium Gift of Life Network as well as Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Month.

KiliKlimb follows local men, Dr. Dante Morasutti, Dennis Segatto and Richard Vennetilli as they climbed Tanzania's Mt. Kilimanjaro to raise awareness for organ donation and support the Neuroscience Program at Windsor Regional Hospital. The climb raised a total of $70,000 to purchase supplies for those individuals effected by strokes as well as quadriplegic patients.

Attendees were given the opportunity to view the Trillium Foundation's Memorial Quilt, which allows families to commemorate their loved ones with personalized patches, while listening to the stories of those affected by organ donation.

Kidney donation recipient Heather St. Pierre shared her experience with the audience, praising her donor for giving her the chance to see her son grow up and return to teaching at Belle River High School next month. She told the Windsor Star, "I think a lot of people may hesitate (registering) because they think 'That can't happen to me, that can't happen to anyone I love.' But it can happen to anybody."

Gunther Funkenhauser was recognized for the organ support of the film shown and organ and tissue awareness.
