The WRH Cancer Centre And Chippewas of Kettle And Stoney Point First Nation improving end-of-life-care for First Nations community

The Erie St. Clair Cancer Program recently partnered with the Chippewas of Kettle & Stony Point First Nation to provide palliative care education to those serving the First Nations community.

Indigenous palliative care needs are expected to become increasingly more complex in the coming years. Through the Core Pallium Learning Essentials Approaches to Palliative Care - or LEAP - Pallium Canada addresses the needs placed on the health care providers and their families for end of life care. This is the first time the organization is providing this service to an indigenous community.

"This is monumental," said Chief Tom Bressette. "Chronic diseases are prevalent in our community and this training will increase the quality of care our citizens will receive. We are so pleased to host this event in our community on behalf of the indigenous peoples residing in Erie St. Clair."

The training was delivered last week in a culturally appropriate manner with traditional knowledge keeper, Doug George guiding the process.

"This is an extremely exciting opportunity as this training will empower our health care providers with the skills needed to care for the community and their family members," said Dr. Mark Tomen,

In England, the incidence of Clostridium difficile dropped by 80 percent from 2006 through 2016, spurred by national control policies implemented in 2007 restricting the use of Fluoroquinolones (a group of broad spectrum antibiotic).

We All Help Create A Safe Workplace For Ourselves And Fellow Staff !

Creating a safe work place is the joint responsibility of the Hospital and its employees. We encourage all staff to help identify hazards and risk factors to their managers for follow up in their workplace inspections. We also encourage all managers to work together with their staff to reduce injuries and their associated costs through the implementation of corrective actions, offering modified work, developing early and safe return to work plans, and comprehensive workplace inspections. We need everyone's assistance and cooperation to control and reduce the frequency, severity, and costs of injuries in the workplace – together we can create a safe and healthy work environment for all.

If you have any questions or concerns about health and safety in your department, you can contact your manager and your worker member on the Joint Health and Safety Committee (JHSC). If you need information on ways to prevent workplace injuries and improve health and safety here at WRH, you can contact a member of the Occupational Health & Safety Department (Mark Varga, Manager, at 519-995-9398; Lisa Graham, Ouellette Coordinator, at 519-995-0811; Jon Beveridge, MET Coordinator, at 519-995-0023).

Both the JHSC and the OHS department are great resources to assist managers and staff in the prevention of workplace injuries.
